Desert camping has some inherent dangers. The trek guide and her team are very well trained and have professional expertise to avoid and respond to dangers. Participants are asked not to take risks and to always listen to and comply with the instructions given by the trek guide and her team. Risk-taking can be a distraction from the deeper purpose of this retreat. We trust you are willing to help make this trip as safe as possible for yourself and the group.

REGISTRATION AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

YOUR TRAVEL

International travel connections to and from Ouarzazate:

There are not many flights to and from Ouarzazate and they are not conveniently scheduled for the retreat. Most participants will prefer to fly to Marrakech and then catch a bus to Ouarzazate. In addition, the flights to Ouarzazate are relatively expensive while those to Marrakech are cheaper.

The national bus company is called CTM and there are several stations in Marrakech - see <http://www.ctm.ma/en>

Pick-up and Drop-off points in Ouarzazate:

The Dar Daïf guest house will pick you up and drop you off at the CTM bus station or at the Ouarzazate airport. Please communicate your arrival and departure dates and times to the guest house.

DAR DAÏF - GUEST HOUSE IN OUARZAZATE

<https://www.dardaif.ma/>

<https://www.facebook.com/dardaif/>

You will be accommodated in a double room unless you have booked a private single room as an optional extra – see section Additional Options. Accommodation is included in the total price of the retreat.

WEATHER CONDITIONS IN THE DESERT

The south of Morocco has a Saharan climate, characterized by large temperature variations between day and night. In November it will be cold at night with temperatures around 0° Celsius. During the day, it will usually be sunny with temperatures between 12° and 28° Celsius. Check the weather forecast on:

<https://www.accuweather.com/en/ma/ouarzazate/245772/weather-forecast/245772>

Sandstorms are a potential hazard – it is therefore necessary to bring glasses to protect your eyes – for instance ski goggles.

REGISTRATION AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

INDIVIDUAL EQUIPMENT

In order to prepare for your journey, here is the list of personal equipment to take with you.

Please note: You will be requested to leave your cameras and phones in Dar Daïf. During the retreat, our trek guide, Zineb will have a phone with her for emergency purposes. Pictures will be taken for the group.

Travel bags

For the desert:

- Large, flexible and robust travel bag, which can be loaded on the roof of vehicles and on camels. The full bag must not exceed 12 kilo.
- Day backpack: for clothes and small equipment (windproof jacket, water bottle, suncream and sunglasses, snacks, binoculars. It is better to have a day bag pack that is not too small and with straps and a comfortable waist belt, even if you don't want to overload it. Be aware that carrying several kilo all day long is a significant effort. However, it is possible to let the "assistance" camel carry it if you are very tired.

To remain at the guest house during the trek:

- Any other bag or suitcase with anything you do not take with you to the desert.

Clothing

- Fleece jacket – or a pullover
- Waterproof and windproof light jacket for use during the day. Rain cape or poncho, if you do not have a waterproof and windproof jacket
- Warm anorak or down jacket for evening and early morning wear
- 2 pairs of light and loose cotton trousers. You are kindly requested not to wear shorts or dresses as they do not comply with local customs
- Warm tracksuit
- 2 or 3 cotton shirts with long sleeves to prevent sunburn
- Comfortable underwear and T-shirts
- 4 or 5 pairs of good quality socks – trekking socks. Poor quality socks can be the cause of sore feet, even for those who are used to walking. Avoid ribbed material
- Sun hat, cap or a turban
- Large cotton scarf
- Swimsuit for the hammam (Turkish bath) in the guest house

REGISTRATION AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

Shoes

- VERY IMPORTANT: Desert shoes - Lightweight walking shoes, preferably ankle height.

These must have been used several times before your departure so that they are well broken in:

- Comfortable walking sandals. If you are going to buy them, look for a thick sole and select one or two sizes larger than usual to prevent your toes from hitting a stone or a branch. Wear them with thick socks the first few days to protect the feet from irritation caused by dust and sand
- Light sport shoes as a backup to your other shoes or sandals, in case your feet are painful. Avoid sport shoes with synthetic mesh fabric because sand penetrates them.

Miscellaneous

- Good quality sunglasses with a rigid case – preferably a wrap-around model
- Ski goggles or equivalent for protection against the sand during sandstorms
- Led headlamp with spare batteries. This is an essential item
- Water bottle of up to 2 litres. Screw caps are preferable. Please be informed that plastic water bottles will be distributed to everyone every morning
- Plastic bags such as garbage bags, including 1 or 2 large ones in case of rain
- Transparent zipped plastic bags to store small items
- Optional pillow cases for your clothes
- Notebook and pencil
- Optional pocket knife – not to keep as hand luggage in the airplane!

Personal toilet kit

- Sunscreen for skin and lips.
- Absorbent microfiber towel
- Sanitary wipes
- Toilet paper (that you must dispose of through burning, so bring matches)

Whenever possible in the desert, you will get a small bucket of warm water in the evening and in the morning to wash yourself.

Personal medical supplies and first aid kit

Bring your personal medicines and a first aid kit with you (the trek guide will carry an extensive first aid kit)

REGISTRATION AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

Seats

Those who want to be seated more comfortably at the camp site should bring a light folding seat with them. These seats will be carried by a camel.

Mobile telephones and cameras

As mentioned, you will be requested to leave your mobile telephones and your camera with your luggage at the guest house during the trek. This is to enable you to connect on a more profound level with yourself and the environment without being distracted by these items.

Our trek guide will carry a mobile telephone for important communications. Photographs will be made by one of us which will be shared with everyone later on.

SLEEPING IN THE DESERT

We will sleep 8 nights in the desert.

Bring a very warm sleeping bag, suitable for the desert nights with temperatures around 0° Celsius or rent one from "Agence Désert et Montagne" - see Additional Options. Please bear in mind that temperature indications on sleeping bags are often over-estimated. We recommend therefore that you bring a sleeping bag with an indication of -40°. See model in section Additional Options.

Bring a fleece sleeping bag liner to provide extra warmth if you have a medium-warmth sleeping bag or if you easily get cold.

EQUIPMENT PROVIDED BY THE TREK AGENCY

- 1 very large dormitory tent for men
- 1 very large dormitory tent for women
- 1 mattress per person (8-10 cm thick)
- 1 shower tent

CAMEL HIRE

We will be walking 3 to 5 hours a day, except on day 5 when we stay in the campsite. If you feel uncertain about walking that much, you can consider hiring a private camel with its driver – see Additional Options. You can then ride that camel whenever you feel tired.

FOOD & DRINKS

All meals are prepared by a cook in the kitchen tent. Great care is taken in their preparation and you will be offered varied, delicious and balanced menus.

Participants with special dietary requirements should communicate these at the time of registration. The required ingredients will be purchased and the cook will take these requirements into consideration.

Breakfast: black or green tea, instant coffee, hot chocolate, cereals, butter, jams, biscuits, bread, cheese.

Snack for walking and breaks: tea and herb tea, fruits, jam, bread or biscuits.

Lunch: mixed salads: tomatoes, rice, potatoes and vegetables, tuna, sardines, cheeses, dried and fresh fruits, tea.

Evening meals: various soups, hot vegetable dishes, tagines with or without meat, rice, pasta, bread baked in the embers of the fire, cheeses, desserts, teas, herb teas.

ECOLOGY

Everyone must take responsibility for not leaving our footprint on the environment. We will travel in a clean and often fragile environment and we must not leave anything behind. At the campsites, we will have large garbage bags for paper, plastic, metal waste and batteries. These bags will be brought back with us at the end of the trip.

Keep any waste in your pockets until the evening when they can be thrown in the garbage bag. Do not dispose of them in the camp fire.

GIFTS AND TIPS

It is customary to express our appreciation and gratitude to our fellow travellers, the camel drivers and guides, for their considerable efforts which often exceed what is required of them. At the end of the trip, you may offer them clothes and objects that you do not wish to take back home that would be of use to them. All these items will be put in a big bag and equally divided amongst them.

Similarly, if you wish to give a tip (this is entirely optional), the amount will be equally distributed.

For your information:

Agence Désert et Montagne employs most of its staff on a full-time basis. The organization complies with Moroccan law and declares its employees on a yearly basis, which is not the case for many other organizations in this sector.

HOW TO BE CONTACTED IN THE DESERT

Participants will not make use of their mobile phones in the desert. Only the trek guide will carry her mobile phone for important communications. The telephone network can sometimes work in the desert.

If family or friends need to urgently contact a participant, they can do so via Agence Désert et Montagne who will inform our trek guide:
